FIGHTING AT LONG RANGE.

List of the Killed and Wounded in the Recent Fights-The Defensive Position of the Indians-Masterly Inactivity of the United States Troops.

To those at all acquainted with the history of Indian wars on the Pacific coast it is known, though not in all cases, that all these unpleasantnesses have been gotten up by white men, not Indianswhite men, small dealers, transport companies who expected to reap rich harvests by conveying troops hither and thither to meet the supposed foe. The Digger Indians of California (and the Modocs are of this class) are the lowest type of the American aborigne, and when he goes on the warpath there is reason to believe the wrongs complained of require attention, and nobody knows this better than General Grant, lor he served years ago while in the army in the district. The Modocs are few in number, despicable as a rebellious body in view of the military strength of the country on the Pacific which is kept low by the presence of troops in Louisiana and Alabama, where citizens are not ex posed to constant apprehension of savage assail-The Modocs, like the rest of their kind, are easily brought under control; also easily made contented and happy. The reader, to understand the theatre of the war now progressing on the boundary line of California and Oregon, might take up the ordinary school map and look at the dividing line between the two States; the parallel is thirty-six degrees north latitude, within a few miles of the Pacific Qccan. The first encounter with the United States troops has resulted to them disastrously, and we are informed by telegraph, December 20, " the military are moving very slowly. The Modocs offer to fight the troops ten to one, and will never sur render."

CAUSE OF THE OUTBREAK.

One account of the outbreak or rebellion is as fol lows :- The Modoc tribe claim the region from the sink of Lost River eastward to Goose Lake, a distance of one hundred miles. The military post known as Fort Klamath, the scene of the troubles, was established in 1863 on a patch of prairie which extends south and west for a dis ance of eight miles, terminating in the Kiamath akes. To understand the situation it is only necessary, as suggested, to look at the line south of forty-three degrees north latitude, near to the Paclic Ocean, and the towns of Jacksonville, in Oregon, on one side, and Yreks on the other. Tweive miles southeast of Fort Klamath, on Williams River, is the Indian reservation and camp. The reservation was occupied by 1,600 Indians-900 of the Klamath tribe, 300 Snakes and 500, all told, of the now troublesome Modocs. Two companies of United States troops were stationed at the post-B, First cavalry, and F, Twenty-first infantry-numbering not more than eighty effective men, and certainly not possessing endicient strength, or even morale, owing to circumstances, to keep the savages in order, as late events have fully shown.

THE MODOC INDIANS.

The Modoc tribe claim what is known as Rhett Lake, where a number of white settlements have been made and located according to law, and where at least ten thousand head of cattle owned by white men graze. Despite these facts the odocs insist upon the land being theirs, and have gone on the war-path to assert or establish their a party, ceded the country in question to the United States government, by whom the latter gave grants to occupiers, but such treaties are not always celebrated as they are when settlement of Aiabama claims are concluded. Linkville, Langellville and the Klamath Lake settlements are Langeiville and the Kiamath Lake settlements are comprised within the disputed territory, and the settlers in these places object naturally and very decidedly to the noble red man roaming over their "claims" and raiding on their cattle. The Dregon Bulletin expresses the views of our far Western fellow citizens on this subject:--<text><text><text><text><text> which is likely to be the scene of the Modoc opera-tions.— It is located en the southern shore of Tule Lake, and is situated wholly in California, just south of the Oregon boundary line, containing an area of the inless square, all cut up with fissifies, geor-guiches, and abounding with hestires, geor-guiches, and the state of the state of a state areast cave is that known as Den Wright's cave, said to contain fitteen acres of open space under ground, in which there is a good spring and many openings which a man cân crewit through, the main entrance being about the size of a common window. The guiches and crewices range from a lew feet to a hundred feet in with, and many of them a hundred feet deep. The Indians can trave all through this lava country by trails known only to themselves, and stand on and many of them a hundred feet deep. The Indians can travel all through this lava country by trails known only to themselves, and stand on bluffs over persons one hundred feet beneath, where it would require a long journey to go to them. In this lava bed are also small flats, inxuri-ant with bunch grass, which cattle find great trouble in reaching by long, circuitous trails over the rough lava rocks, while ea the outskirts of the lava bed may continually be found a large amount of stock, the cattle range being unsurpassed. The indians can see men coming at a distance of five miles without their being seen. They can also let their pursuers come within a lew feet of the binf and shoot down, and retiring, if necessary, to other similar buffs. As to food, the Indians can find all they want of cattle in and around the lava bed, and can also go out on the lake in cances to fish or shoot game. The only thing the Indians lack for a long siege will be amountion for their guns, but they will make arrows instead. Those pursuing them will have to follow the Indians on foot, and in journeying through these gulehes and crevices to hunt them subove them on every point, or making their way through conceated passages to their secure hiding places. It will require the Modocs in the law buffs and stategy to capture the Modocs in this lava section, notwithstanding their insignificant number. The solve new fails deep in this section and melts of in twenty-four hours. Jim's band is undoubtedly near the lava bed, and if not with Captain Jack, soon will be, as it is evident from Jack's men burning Mooroe's house that his hand had as much to do with committing depredations on setters as flack fin's band. All the tamilies in the vicinity of hot Creek have arrived in town or in Shasta valley.

nothing, the Indian being cooped up as tight, as a bottle in their rocky fortress. The Hot Creek indians, who went from here night before last, are said to be equally as desperate as Scar-faced Charley or Cartain Jack. They are under command of Shack stasty Jim, a young brave of considerable distinction. They left several squaws behind, who say that they went to join Jack's band.

General Crook in Active Pursuit of the Hostile Indians of Arizona.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23, 1872. Advices from Arizons to the 14th of December have been received. General Crook's scouts have taken the field from Date Creek, Camp Whipple, amp Verde, Apache Camp, Camp McDowell and Camp Grant, and are moving towards the country occupied by the Tonto and Pinal Apaches. The scouts are assisted by Pah Ute, Apache and Yuma Indians. The hostile Apaches of the Upper Verde River are retreating to the mountains. It is gen-erally believed that the hostile tribes will be brought to terms during this Winter's campaign.

THE EDUCATIONAL APPROPRIA-TIONS.

Distribution of the Excise Fund Among the Free Schools-How Our Private Charitable Schools Are Supported-Magnificent Showing for the Charita-ble Schools of the City-What Is Being Done for Education Outside of the Regular Public Schools.

The subjoined report of a committee of the Board of Education is ready for submittal to the Board of Apportionment. It forms the basis upon which estimates are made for the distribution of the Excise funds. The rate is $6 per capita of scholars in average attendance at each school. It will be observed that of the sixty-five schools named thirty-two are Catholic in sentiment and thirtythree are Protestant or else non-sectarian, but, as the roll of scholars attending the Catholic schools far exceed those attending the other schools, the Catholics receive the larger share of the appropria-tions. To obtain the amount donated to each institution multiply the average attendance by by personal inquiries, of by examination if requisite of the registers of attendance. The undersigned present also in a separate list several schools, with their equalized average attendances, at-tached to institutions which have received city or State aid within the year; but it is claimed by the managers that these appropriations were for the maintenance of the institutions and not for the schools, which, in fact, received no part of such aid. If the Board adopt this view of the matter the schools are in other respects well worthy of sharing in the distribution. L. D. KIERNAN.

The Spaniard in New York on the Herald

Mission. [From El Cronista.]

That celebrated and unparalleled Mr. Henderson, of the NEW YORK HEBALD, whose antecedents, for decency's sake, we refrain from publishing, and which are so foul, indeed, that the New York Sun would blush to lay them before the public, has telegraphed from Charleston that he brings fresh and fat news from Cuba, which he will publish in the HERALD columns, written in an impartial spirit. We anxiously await his writval.

The following is from the Havana correspondence of the same paper :-- of the same paper:--According to latest news Mr. Henderson has left Cuba with a flea in his ear, and has embarked for St. Thomas, without having seen that imagi-nary Cuban President, Carlos Manuel Cespedes. This fact is greatly to be regretted, as that con-scientions and honest Yarkee might have had the kindness to find his address, so that we could have had the pleasure of occasionally informing our-selves as to the state of his health. The HERALD speaks of Spain and the South American republics with as much knowledge and inteiligence as if it ware discoursing about the social attributes of the man in the moon.

The Cubans in New York on the Herald's Enterprise and Impartiality.

[From La Revolucion de Cuba.] Of a truth the HERALD is the Titan of journal-

sm ! Founded by a man of genius, destitute of wealth, but in whose soul burned the aspiration of fame, the subsequent independent conduct o his own creation, the HERALD, made it a universal power of good. It stood in the order of things that an independent organ of this character, which did not hesitate to treat social or general questions with untrammelled views, advocating the public weal in all things, should have a large and extensive circulation. The paper soon became wealthy, yes, very wealthy; and, with all honor be it said, the wealth in question was not locked up in a miser's chest, but, on the contrary, generously applied to a noble development of the interests of the paper. Thousands upon thousands of dollars were expended in obtaining the earliest telegraphic news for the benefit of the whole world. Immense sums were expended in expeditions to the heart of Africa for the benefit of science, while a like enterprise has lately been planned and exe-cuted to show to the public what was transpiring amid the mountain intricacies of Cuba, and which subject, in the existing state of affairs, is of intense interest to humanity in general. Of a truth this latter exploit is one of the proud achievements of the NEW YORK HERALD, and that paper, holding the New YORE HERALD, and that paper, holding at its disposition immense resources, naturally ob-tained a talented individual jor this expedition. Millions of the readers of the HERALD attended with the utmost impationce the report of Mr. Hen-derson, the HERALD's special commissioner to Cuba, and on the 19th of this month the long de-sired report made its appearance. We regret more than ever the limited space of our paper, which prohibits us the pleasure of reproducing in this issue a faithiui translation of this report. Speak-ing in a literary point of view this report has great merits, while its descriptive and consecutive qual-ities are, of no mean order, and, in a word, are worthy of the HERALD. ## Hopeless Without Outside Aid.

Hopeless Without Outside Aid. [From the New Haven Palladium, Doc. 20.] Mr. Henderson, the HERALD commissioner to Cuba, tells a very interesting and apparently trust-worthy story. His literary abilities are of a higher order than those of Mr. Stanley, and he talks less about himself and the journal he represents. He citize us the first elimene of the nation of the about himself and the journal he represents. He gives us the first glimpse of the patriot army of the Cuban Republic. He estimates the insurgent forces at about twelve thousand men, poorly clad, but well armed and supplied with abundant provisions. He found the spirit of the insurgents indonitable, and they declared they would never surrender. President Cespedes and his immediate followers refused the terms of surrender which Mr. Hen-derson was authorized to offer them. The war is sanguinary in the extreme, neither side giving quarter. Both the Spanisrds and Cubans admit that even the wounded are massacred. The insur-gents base their hopes of success on tiring out the Spanish government. The loss of life on the part of the Spanish troops, more by disease than by the buliets of the insurgents, is enormous, and the re-sources of the island have fallen away so much that it is doubiful if it ever pays the cost of the army sent to reduce the rebels. But Mr. Henderson's surter, without outside aid, is a hopeless one. The insurgents are only able to maintain a guerilla warfare, and are being gradually pushed back further into the interior.

SIMMONS REMOVED TO BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.

Last night, at eight o'clock, John Simmons, the alleged murderer of Nicholas Duryea, was taken from the Park to Bellevue Hospital in the amba-lance. He was accompanied by Warden Brennan, Dr. Amabile and Officer Webber, who arrest Dr. Amable and Officer Webber, who arrested him. He refuses still to utter a word with reference to the affair. Professor Wood and Dr. Amable Bage been his attendants. Special quarters have been fitted up for Simmons at Bellevue. Police officers have been in attendance at his bedside since his arrest. It having been reported that an attempt to assassinate him would be made by the friends of Daryes upon the occasion of his removal to Belle-vue Hospital, Captain McCaffrey, with six officers, was in attendance, but no attempt at violence was made.

HORSE NOTES.

Budd Doble left for California on the 19th inst., aking with him the bay mare Rosalind, who has a record of 2:21%, in harness; also the chestnut stallion, St. Elmo and the pacing gelding Dan Voorhies. The opinion of turfmen is that Rosalind and the Californian trotter Occident will come together during the Winter, and some grand en gagements will be made to put money in the purses of the owners of the horses. Nothing like "making hay while the sun shines;" and as Rosalind and Occident are pretty nearly equal in speed, con-Occident are pretty nearly equal in speed, con-tests between them can be made highly exciting. St. Elmo and Dan Voorhies are both rast horses, the former being capable of trotting; in 2:25 when al-lowed to, and the other a pacer that can beat 2:20 four or five times in succession when in condition. The trio will enliven the turf on the Park yester-day, but in the streets and avenues it was rather desperate. of this statement no better evidence is to i than in the crowded condition of the veracity of this statement no better evidence is to be found than in the crowded condition of the Spanish hospitals. It is undisputable that the monule of the patriots stands high, and Mr. Henderson has heard from the mouths of the Spanish officers that they are ready to shortfice their lives a thousand times over in the holy cause of inberty. We rejoice greatly that Mr. Henderson has succeded as admirably as we predicted, for he has seen President Cespedes, General Agramonte, has conversed with them and has fulfilled his task in every respect. To conclude, Mr. Henderson has gained great honor by the fortunate accomplishment of his mis-sion, while his report, as before stated, is impar-tial, and he has achieved the landable result of throwing light and teiling the truth on a subject which has nitherto been but more or less clothed in mystery.

Views of the Expedition from a New

Standpoint. [From the New York Sun, December 20.]

Mr. A. Boyd Henderson, special correspondent of the HERALD in Cuba, has returned and laid his statement before the public. We republish portions of it in another column. Both for his lucid description of what he saw, learned and experienced in Cuba, and for his honorable reticence on matters which he is prevented from divulging, Mr. Henderson is entitled to much credit. But although he has unquestion-ably told the truth, his statement falls far short of the whole truth. Thus, probably for political motives, Mr. Hender son omits all mention of his two interviews with President Grant previous to his departure from this country. Probably because his word of honor pledged to Captain General Ceballos prevents his so doing, he also omits all mention of the peremtory demand from President Grant, on the "crength of which slone he was liberated from jail in Havana. And finally, because he himself is probably ignorant of the fact, he fails to record the true rea-
