Probable Murder of a Woman by her Husband in Westchester County.

The Demon Bum at Work Again-A Child Telling the Story of Her Father's Brutality-Shocking Appearance of the Deceased-Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

The usually quiet little village of West Farms was yesterday thrown into a fever of excitement. caused by the intelligence that Ann Ennis had been murdered by her husband at their residence in Cross street. The death of the woman was dis covered in the mest accidental manner by Mr. H. field, a county constable, who, when using through Cross street yesterday morning, was informed by some boys that Ennis' wife was dead. Mr. Scofield, who knew the character of the persons, was not to suspect that something was wrong, and immediately went to a groggery on the corner of Main and Cross streets, which was a favorite resort of Ennis', and there found the husband, who in-formed him that his wife was dead. Mr. Scoffeld sted on Xis going to the house with him, which, fter much hesitation, Engls consented to do.

The house is a double frame, very dilapidated and dingy in appearance, and is occupied by four es. including the Kanises, who rent the second floor, which consists of two rooms. In the -largest of these two Mr. Scofield found the body of Mrs. Ennis stretched at full length on the floor. The room being dark he could see nothing but her form, and so raised the blind, when a most sickening sight met his eyes. The woman's head, which within a few inches of the stove, was covered with cuts, and the congealed

Her face was disfigured beyond all recognition, while her hands and breasts-which were ex--were covered with bruises and much disgured with black and blue blotches. when brought to the Tremont station house Enhis denied all knowledge of the cause of the death of his wife. He says when he awoke yesterday morning he found her dead on the floor. The blood on his boots, he maintains, came from Bucking's hin dressing factory, where he is employed. The Emakato reporter saw Ennis in his cell yesterday. He is a short, thick-set man, with low forehead, mall eyes and coarse mouth. To all the interrogatories put to him by the reporter he re-turned monosyliable answers. He does not re-member anything that happened on Tuesday night, and says that he first knew of his wife's death when he awoke yesterday morning. During the oversation he was very nervons and had the ap-pearance of a man of intemperate habits. THE CORONER'S INQUEST. At five o'clock yesterday atternoon Coroner Mil-fer held an inquest. A meeting of colored men was held last night in the Powell House, in Thompson street, to take into consideration the subject of their civil rights in this State, as affected by the bill introduced into the Legislature last Thursday, Rev. William F. Butler was elected chairman, and Messra. Titus and Freeman, secretaries. Mr. Butler, at whose instance mainly the meeting was convened, stated its objects and read the bill. It is very sweeping in its requirements. It gives to colored people the right to travel in any public conveyance by land or water, to visit theatres, odge and board at hotels, taverns, &c., in this State on the same terms and conditions as white persons are now admitted to and are treated in those places. It imposes a fine of not more than $500 nor less than $100 for every violation of this act upon conviction, and is in every respect, but in a more limited sense, a copy of Mr. SUMNER'S CIVIL RIGHTS BILL

EUMNER'S CIVIL RIGHTS BILL in Congress. The colored people of this city and State want the bill passed, and this meeting discussed the best methods to give their influence to its passage. It was deemed by some of those present that a mass meeting should be called and petitions distributed for signatures to be forwarded to the Legislature asking for the passage of the bill. Solomon David Moore on Trial for His Life Doris Convicted of Murder in the at Morristown.

The Case for the Prosecution Resting Upon Circumstantial Evidence-A Peculiar

Defence Expected.

The attendance in Court this afternoon, in anticipation of the trial of Solomon David Moore com-ing on, was very large, every scat in the room being occupied. There was a great array of law yers, the case presenting so many features of criminal interest that even those members of the legal fraternity who were not directly interested in it made it a point to be present. It is rumored that the defence of Moore will be a very peculiar one, it being the intention of counsel to endeavor to prove that the murder was committed by one of the principal witnesses the prosecution. There is a celebrated Irish case on record in the law courts, in which O'Connell take out a knife or a revolver and strike you down on the slightest provocation. If you do not main-tain the law in this State, and if you allow the same practice to be followed here as in other States, then you will have the same difficulty here as in other States. What is the reason we have not the same number of murders in this as in other States? Be-cause murder is punished here, and no man can be followed here as the followed here as the was counsel for the defence, when the same tactics was counsel for the defence, when the same faction were adopted, and with triumphant success; and it is suid that the counsel for Moore are in posses-sion of some strong testimony, which will not be without its weight upon an intelligent jury.

Moore was brought into Court at three o'clock, amid breathless silence, by the Sheriff. He is a man of about five feet seven inches high, forty years old, strongly built and wiry. His face is not indicative of a murderous disposition, and no one looking at him could imagine he was so charged with for which he is to be put on trial for his life. He wears no whiskers or moustache, the eyes are deep set, his hair is fair and the whole appearance of the man, while not vicious, is indicative of a low order of intelligence. He manifested no con-cern at the perilous position in which he is placed, looking steadily on while the proceedings were being opened.

looking steadily on while the proceedings were being opened. At three o'clock the case was called on and the jury panel read over. Judge Dairymple was the presiding judge, assisted by the two associate Judges of the district. For the State there appeared the prosecuting attorney, F. A. De Mott and the Attorney General, Mr. Gilchrist. For the defence A. Mills, James J. Cutter and Stephen H. Little. There was a great number of ladies present, who watched the case with intense interest. The jurors were first called and ranged in the two front seats.

Baird, John M. Stark, Samnel Baldwin, Louis Kutcher, Henry H. Sutton. Garrett C. Smith, George Jacobns, James M. Leonard, John D. Courtray and William Thorpe. The witnesses for the prosecution were then called and answered to their names:--Mr. De Mott stated the case for the people. The prisoner was charged with having wilfully mur-dered his wife on the night of the 28th of Novem-ber (Thanksgiving night). On that night the miners who inhabited the little hamlet in which the shanty of the prisoner was situated were carousing. Moore was known to be under the in-fluence of Ilquor and was seen going towards is house. Sometime previous, about ten o'clock, the wife of Moore, who was an enteebled woman and a cripple, was also seen going towards her home on a crutch. The next morning two Mitle boys, who were out rabbit shooting, the first snow of the season having fallen the previous night, came upon the dead body of a woman with no clothing on but a pair of stockings, a chemise and a petiticoat. When the interior of the house was examined, it was iound that the furniture it contained WAS COVERED WITH BLOOD, and there were many other evidences of a severe

WOMAN SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT.

There was a meeting last night at Robinson Hall, in East Sixteenth street, near Broadway, in favor of the woman suffrage movement. The hall was about three-quarters full, though the main attraction of the meeting was absent. It had been expected that Mrs. Gady Stanton would deliver the main speech of the evening. But it was an-nounced that Mrs. Stanton had mistaken the even-ing of her engagement, having been taken for a meeting eisewhere. In place of Mrs. Stanton Mrs. Charlotte B. Wilbour took the stand. She de-tivered the most advanced principles of woman suffrage in the mildest of tones. She said that there was no human law which did not give the same right to women as it did to men. By what right did men claim to exclude all women from political privileges which they themselves enjoyed? Was it there eresuit of iorce? Was it because a man was stronger than a woman? If this principle was to be carried out the strong man must have other rights than the weak man. The giant was absointely superior to the dwarf in all the rights of political bening. But no; this principle was ruliching. Did it require a very strong man to lit a which could annihilate another by the name of Jones? Was it brawn or brain which ruled the world? If it were brawn then were we in miserable condition; but if it were brain the will men say that they have all the principle was will be any that they have all the principle was the will men say that they have all the principle world. REAL ESTATE MATTERS. Eastern Boulevard, East River Park-Destruction of Water Fronts-Great De-mand for Riverside Park Lots-Eleven

A bill is before the Legislature, introduced by Mr. McCrary, but not yet printed and reported to the Assembly, providing for the laying out of a new boulevard on the east side of the city and also a new park. The bill has been kept comparatively secret, as but few, if any, of the property holders whose property is to be taken, or who are assessed for the improvement, have been consulted in the matter.

It is understood, however, that the proposed route for the boulevard is from the Central Park eastward, through Seventy-second street, to ave-nues A and B; thence northward through both avenues to Eighty-ninth street; thence, diagonally, across to Third avenue, at Ninety-sixth streetsixth to 102d street; thence eastward again through 102d street to avenue A, and along that avenue northward to the Harlem River.
