CENTRAL PARK GARDEN.

Theodore Thomas' Annual Benefit Concert.

The culmination, in a musical point of view, of the Summer season at the Central Park Garden must certainly be assigned to the annual benefit concert of Mr. Thomas, which took place last evening. The chilly and threatening state of the weather interfered to some extent with the attendance, and many were, doubtless, deterred from enjoying the richest banquet of sweet sounds ever furnished on a Summer evening by this able caterer. Therefore, it is but reasonable to expect that Mr. Thomas will repeat the programme when skies are more favoring. It abounds in novelties, or at least in words with which the New York public are not familiar, as may be seen from the ficiency, its discipline, unanimity in response to the ideas of the composer or the slightest suggestion of the conductor. Eight years ago this indefatigable and indomitable apostle of the divine art boldly entered the until then unknown regions of Summer classical concerts. His orchestra reached its present standard of excellence by eight years' constant study and practice under an experienced baton and a conscientious musician, whom no clamor or entreaty has ever been able to bring down from his high standard of art. Requests for what is misnamed popular music, because it is associated with the London concert saloon or the French opera bouge, have been invariably met with firm, emphalic rejussls, and Mr. Thomas has been the principal instrument in making the American public acquainted with the best and purest that music can boast of. Through him Peoria as well as the modern Athens are now as familiar with the name, and, perhaps, the ideas too, of Beethoven, Schumann and the futurists as they were previously with Root's processional hymns, Sambo's pianiation ditties, or John Brown's apotheosis. Such a good work brings to the doer imperishable renown.

Of the programme now under consideration it is unnecessary to dwell a moment on the performance of the "Scherzo." from Raffs "Fatherland" symphony, played nine years ago at Irving Hall by Thomas orchestra, the third and cest of the "Leonora" overtures of the Titan of composers; Schumann's pretty little song, Strauss' voluptuous waitz measures or the stately march of Meyerbeer. The concert opened with a march by Kiel, a musician of considerable repute in Berlin and an old confere of Rubinstein. Who Mr. Dietrich is we are unable to ascertain, only we suppose he is one of the school of a certain gentlema introduced last Winter by the Philharmonic Society under the name of Erdmansdorfer. Gounds's work shows the intimate knowledge which this favorite representative of the French school has gained of the true devotional spirit of church music, and Saint Saens, a French

The following is an extract from the report of the Agricultural Department for June:—

Twelve months ago an increase over the previous year in the cotton area was reported in every State. An increase over that of last year is now reported in every State. An increase over that of last year is now reported in every State. The percentage of increase in a State is lound by dividing the aggregate of increase in counties by the number reported, and is, as a rule, too high, because almost always the largest percentage of increase will be from counties having a comparatively small acreage. But, reckoned in this rough way of estimating the increase indicated is in Virgima 23 per cent; North Carolina and Georgia, 14 per cent; South Carolina, 2 per cent; Florida, 3 per cent; Alabama, 9 per cent; Mississippi and Louisiana, 4 per cent; Texas, 31 per cent; Tenessee, 15 per cent. This makes the average increase in the cotton States, reckoned in the same way, nearly 12 per cent. The increase reported last year was, in North Carolina and Arkansas, 16 per cent; South Carolina, 9 per cent; Georgia and Tennessee, 12 per cent; Florida and Mississippi, 10 per cent; Alabama and Louisians, 11 per cent; Texas, 18, and the average throughout the cotton States approximated 13 per cent; Texas makes the largest relative increase in the relative amount of fertilizers used. The acreage cultivated will fall considerably below that planted. A cold, backward Spring causing much seed to rot in the ground, a very wet May preventing work and increasing the subsequent demand for it, and the impossibility of obtaining sunflicient labor to subdue, over the whole breadth sown, the excessive weeds and grass consequent upon the extraordinary wet season, conspire to make this result inevitable. Returns concur in placing the crop from two to three weeks later than usual. Florida reports an average condition of two per cent above the annual average. All the otners fall below. Virginia and Alabama, 7 per cent; Survey and the streat heaver and tous and, 6 pe All the others fail below. Virginia and Alabama, 7 per cent; North Carolina, 12; Scuth Carolina, 12; Georgia and Louisiana, 6 per ceut; Mississippi and Arkansas, 8 per cent; Texas, 14; Tennessee, 10 per cent. But it will be seen from the extracts below that very generally the weather in the last days of May was lavorable, and there was a hopeful prospect that the condition would rapidly improve. Another part of this report will show that caterpillars and worms have made an early appearance at various points and are causing considerable apprehension of destructive ravages. Virginia, from which four counties reported the calture of cotton last year, reports eight this, and an increase of acreage in all except Patrick, Chesterfield and King William, in which it is unchanged. The statistical returns of corn completed to June 1 do not include the area and condition, for the reason that it is too early; but the foot notes of correspondence show that the planting of corn in most sections of the country has been much retarded by excessively wet and cold weather, and that the pests which usually thrive in such a season, the cut worms, have commenced extensive operations and threaten to greatly damage the crop.

A Wonderful Display of Skill at the Championship Tournament.

Garnier Defeats Joseph Dion-Cyrille Dion Scores His Second Victory from "Joe"-The French Wizard Bewitches the Balls and Dazes Deery-Ubassy's Great Run of 93 and Average of Nearly 18.

The third game in the three ball carrom tourns ment at billiards, for the championship of the world, was played at Irving Hall yesterday afternoon, in the presence of some three or lour hundred persons, chiefly experts in the game or connoiscontestants. Among the "professors" present were Francois Ubassy (the French billiard magician), H. W. Collender, Chris. O'Connor, Maurice Daly, Cyrille Dion, John Deery, Mr. Bessinger (of Chicago), and numerous other gentlemen of cuerious distinction. The game commenced at two o'clock, three hundred points up, Messrs. Gayraud and Wilmarth acting as umpire and marker respectively.

played on the spot, without scoring. Garnier drew first blood and missed after scoring 2, and Dion's second inning resulted in 3 points. Garnier then opened the ball" by getting the ivories together in the lower left corner for 11. By a pretty draw in the angle, taking two cushions, up the table and played them down again for 3 points into the lower right corner. Here, by 'nursing," he added 10 points to his run, and breaking the position, played all over the table for 11 points more, and got them back again into the lower right corner. After making 4 points the balls "froze," and, playing from the "spot" he scored 2, and missed a masse, ending his run with 38 points amid great ap plause. Dion failed to score, and Garnier made only one, when Dion in his fourth inning made a bad miss after scoring 6. Garnier, in his fitth inning, made 7 and "froze" again and missed on the "snot." Dion made a nice draw on his second play and got the balls into the left upper but missed after scoring 10, ing of interest occurred up to the ninth inning, when Garnier played from the head of the table to the middle cushion and made a very pretty cushion "hug" on the balls in the lower left corner. Of course he was applauded, and made 9 in the run. Dion was evidently annoyed at his ill-fortune at this time and tried to brace himself up, but things were against him and continued so all through the game, notwithstanding he played with GREAT PLUCK AND DASH.

against him and continued so all through the game, notwithstanding he played with

GREAF PLUCK AND DASH.

In his eleventh inning he made a splendid round-the-table shot with five cushions, but the amounted only to points. He was all to pieces and could not get himself together, Garnier was playing carefully, and in his fifteenth inning scored 28 by caution and precision. He did not make a brilliant play in the run, but he was going for points all the time. In his next inning he made a splendid shot on the eighteenth count, and in the left upper corner, but the position was ugly afterward. He made a handsome jump shot, however, in the corner sent the red spinning all around the table and brought it back into the corner. On the twenty-seventh count he "froze" again, counted off the spot and ended the run with 29. Dion's seventeenth inning was finely played, and he "nursed" the balls beautifully for 24 Garnier went to work and scored 28 and matters were dull until the twenty-first inning, when Dion played the balls exquisitely in the left upper corner for 25, and then missed, leaving the ivory all in a bunch. This settled it. Garnier went to work, steady and sure, and made

A RUN OF EIGHTY-SIX POINTS, which placed his score 272, against Dion's 105. The interest in the game revived a little on Dion's twenty-third inning, when he made some bold and brilliant play at long range, and round-the-table shots, but he missed after scoring 19. Garnier went out on his twenty-fixth inning, leaving the following

All the billiard notabilities and many distinguished citizens were present, and the assemblage conducted itself with the utmost decorum. Play opened at eight o'clock to a large corum. Flay opened at eight o'clock to a large house, but about half-past nine, shortly before Ubassy was expected to begin his wizard tricks with the balls, the house became jammed.

The first game was between the brothers Joseph and Cyrille Dion. In the French pools Cyrille was the favorite against Joe at odds of 7 to 2. In stringing for lead Cyrille won the choice and led from the spot with three Joe missed, and Cyrille maintated him to perfection, and Joe gave him another specimen of the same sort, which Cyrille again took pattern from. Joe then weni in for 3 points, and Cyrille kept on missing, and after Joe had scored 12 on his fourth inning Cyrille made out to miss once more. In his seventh inning Joe made two splendid

Joe in his eleventh played admirably, alternating twelve consecutive times with right and left hand play while "nursing" the balls along the lower cushion. In his thirteenth he made a superb long side draw down the right hand cushion. Cyrille made a very pretty cushion kiss from the lower right cushion to the left upper corner in his fitteenth inning, and fortelted to Joe by playing a saiety miss in the eighteenth. In his twenty-third inning he nursed the balls beautifully along the right cushion and made 37. In his twenty-fifth he made a fine long massé, half the length of the table, and was the subject of many plaudits. From this time to the close of the game Cyrille began to pick up, but Joe could not get himself into "keller" and the game close of the game Cyrille began to pick up, but Joi could not get himself into "kelter" and the game became very tiresome. Ubassy, was first to show up for the next game, in which he was pitted against John Deery. He looked like an ancient farmer, and was "quite at home." Deery was rather dushed, and did not seem to have any confidence in himself. Deery won the lead and scored nothing on playing. Ubassy massed, and everybody wondered if he was out o' sorts again, as on Monday night, when Daly picked him up and quietly walked off with a victory. Again Deery failed to count and the old ivory necromancer took charge of the spheres. He found them somewhere up near the head of the table and kept them there, right along by the cushion or in the corners. Occasionally he didn't like the way taey were laying, and he would send one or two of them fiving down the table and left them crawl back again until he had them just right. Then he would "draw" and masse and play fine "kisses" for a while. In this way he kept fooling with the balls until he had run up 45 and in his forty-seventh count made a glorious masse, two-thirds of the table's length. Then the crowd became excited and applanded, and "IEE ANTIQUE JUGGLER" kept on juggling with a fineness of touch and accuracy of power and direction that was marvellous, until he reached 75. Then everybody applanded, and finelly, as he kept up the monotony of counting and always kept the balls within a seven inch triangle, somebody said he was trying to hang out a pawnbroker's sign. They applanded so loudy that the old man gave them a lot of the prima donna bowing and currisying business with true French grace, and, when they had cooled down, he warmed up to his work again and went on with the run. Well, he sont the balls all over the table again and then went into the loan office sign business once more, and at last everybody began to langh at the unerring precision of his play and the quiet look on th thought he might not be able to stop when he wanted to. But he quit at 31. Deery ran 46 in his eleventh inning by fine, bold play, frequently at long range, but the balls "froze" on his forty-fifth count and he made but one from the spot and then missed. The old man kept the people in splendid humor during his innings, but shocked them once twice by showing them that

YALE COLLEGE.

Poems, Orations, Addresses and the Usual Programme Before Commencement. NEW HAVEN, June 24, 1873.

To-day has been Class Day at Yale. In the fore-aoon the graduating class assembled at eleven o'clock in the chapel, where were gathered a large audience, comprised mostly of ladies. Edward R. Johnes, of Lexington, Ky., delivered a poem, which was well received, his subject being Old, Story of Hopes and Memories." class oration was delivered by William A. Houghton, of Holliston, Mass. His subject was "The Future of American Democracy." It was a graceful production. The exercises were con-cluded by the class singing a parting ode. In the afternoon the class gathered on the college campus, beneath the elms, and listened to the campus, beneath the elms, and listened to the reading of the class histories, surrounded by a large gathering of friends sitting on raised seats. Amusing narratives were read by the historians, J. P. Ord, E. E. Gaylord, J. H. Van Buren and F. J. Shepard, which alternately awakened merriment and called out a victim for a brief speech. The long-stemmed pipes were brought out as usual and smoked, and harmless lemonade was quaffed. As the day closed the reading was fluished, and then followed the planting of the class tyy, the cheering of the college halls, the day concluding with a screnade to the President.

This evening the promenade concert of the junior This evening the promenade concert of the junior class is being held at Music Hall. The attendance ciass is being held at Mosic Hall. The attendance is large and brilliant.

To-morrow the only meeting-of interest is that of the members of the Alumni at Alumni Hall, in the morning, and the meetings of the classes of 1823, 1833, 1853, 1853, 1857, 1870. In the evening the President of the college holds a reception at the Art Building. On Thursday occurs the commencement exercises.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, BROOKLYN-THIRD ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT. The third annual commencement of St. John's (Roman Catholic) College, corner of Lewis and Willoughby avenues, Brooklyn, took place last evening. The large hall of the college was filled to its utmost by an intelligent and appreciative audience, comprising the étite of the Catho ic population of Brooklyn. The interior of the hall was tastefully and appropriately decorated, there being a profuse display of banners suspended from the walls, while upon the platferm streamed a magwalls, while upon the platferm streamed a magmificent representation of the Stars and Stripes, adding to the gorgeousness of the spectacle.

The reverend clergy of Brooklyn were present in large numbers, prominent among whom were Bishop Loughlin, Rev. Dr. Friel, Father Curran, and Father O'llegan, Vice President of the College.
Upon the platform we noticed Father Landry.
President of the College; Fathers Smith, Byrne and others. The exercises of the evening were commenced at eight o'clock, the programme being

The various parts of the several students were executed with admirable ability and elicited plandits of commendation. At the close Bishep Loughlin distributed the premiums, after which Father Landry, President of the institution, delivered a short address to the friends and patrons of the college, whom he thanked for their attendance, and whose presence in such large numbers, he said, was an encouragement to them in the work in which they were engaged—of building an addition to the present edilice, which, when completed, it was to be hoped, would stand as a monument of Catholic education in that portion of the city.
St. John's College is under the care of the Lazarist Fathers, of the Congregation of the Mission, to whose zeal and labors this edilice is a most sion, to whose zeal and labors this edifice is a most worthy testimonial. It is but a year or two since they founded their institution in Brooklyn, and now they have in course of erection a magnificent building for their college.

PROBABLE WIFE MURDER IN BROOKLYN. At half-past nine o'clock last night the screams of a woman, at 27 President street, Brooklyn, at tracted the attention of Officer Clark, of the Third precinct, who happened to be in the vicinity at the time. The officer rushed into the house, when he found George Wise, a boatman, beating and kick ing his wife. The unfortunate woman was upon the noor, nearly insensible from the injuries she had received, and was bleeding profusely from the wounds upon her head and face. Wise seemed to be maddened with fassion and rum, and were it be maddened with fassion and rum, and were it not for the opportune arrival of the officer would soon have rendered his wife hieless. The woman was unable to move and had to be carried to the Long Island College Hospital, where her injuries were pronounced of a fatal character. It was said she was internally injured.

Wise made an attempt to get away, but the officer held him and lodged him in the Butler street station house. The prisoner, who is about thirty-eight years of age, is said to have been in the habit of beating his wife. Last night he returned to his home under the influence of liquor and began as usual to quarrel with the unfortunate woman. She made remarks in regard to his brutal treatment, whereupon he knocked her down with his fist and then kicked her with his heavy boots.

ANOTHER VOLUNTARY EXECUTION IN NEW JERSEY.

In Newton, N. J., yesterday morning, one Bernard Lane, a local celebrity, hanged himself while carousing, under the usual mental aberration. Bernard was famous in his neighborhood for his thoroughly independent manner of celebrating every independence Day. He had an old musket his fariler carried at the battle of Monmouth, during the Revolutionary war. With this and other martial paraphernain he had a "Fourth of July" all to himself. Bernard, or Barney, as he was called, was quite a character in other respects.

It is supposed that numerous cases have been attended by these parties, and search is now being made for the body of the last viotim, which has been traced to a sewer.

ANOTHER BLACK FIERD.

A Young Lady Outraged by a Negro at Orange Court House, Va.-How the Fiend Accumplished His Purpose-His Pursuit and Capture.

WASHINGTON, June 24, 1873. A negro farm hand, named Walker, committed a fiendish outrage on a young lady named Meeks, at Orange Court House, va., last night. She resided with Rev. Mr. Hatcher, a haptist coinster, who with his wife had gone to the village to visit a parishoner, leaving hiss Meeks in charge of the house. The negro entered the sitting room, located the door, and seized the young lady, saving that he had come for a certain purpose and intended to accomplish it, if he was shot the next minute. He warned her that it she screamed or made a veresistance he would cut her head open. A struggie ensued, but

After this the fiend told her if she left the house of attempted to give the alarm he would kill her. It was very late before Mr. Hatcher and his wife returned, but they were informed of what had taken place. This morning the citizens of the town Dete

At the meeting of the Common Council last evenbeen perpetrated on the city by A. O. Evans and J. Geayer, two ex-officials, was brought up again, but the Council, by a majority vote, refused to consider the case, and postponed it for a week. A city surveyor, named Wegener, was voted $200 for plans and improvements for a school house and a track house. On motion of Connellman Heyde it was resolved to give a further share of the city printing to the same papers as printed an ordinance in relation to taxes last year. When asked what papers they were he acknowledged that he did not know, nor was there a Councliman present who did know. In spite of this ignorance, all except the Fourth ward members voted for the resolution. It is understood to be a job for the further enrichment of one Bayer, who prints a sheet with a circulation of but a few copies, and drawing its life blood from the city treasury. The recent conduct of some of the Councilmen is a subject of extensive comment. the case, and postponed it for a week. A city sur-
