LONDON, June 26, 1873.

A telegram from Central Asia addressed to the HERALD has reached this city. It is dated Aulie Ata, Turkistan, May 23.

THE KHAN SAID TO HAVE SURRENDERED HIS CAPITAL.

The correspondent says that it was reported in Turkistan that His Highness the Khan of Khiva had surrendered his city unconditionally to General Kaufmann, Commander-in-Chief of the Russian armies operating against him.

PEACE DELAYED BY KHIVIAN INSIGNORITY.

General Kaufmann was at first well disposed towards the humbled ruler, and not by any means inclined to insist upon hard terms in behalf of the Emperor Alexander; but when he found that twelve different proposals which he tendered, each presenting a basis of settlement, were rejected, because of evident trickery on the part of the Khivian, he was compelled to break off the negotiations and refuse all attempts for a renewal of the correspondence.

RUSSIAN ARMY CONCENTRATION.

General Kaufmann had formed a junction with the Russian column under Verefkina before the taking of Kungrat.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

The Body of a Boy Found Buried in a Cellar—An Investigation to Be Had.

There was quite an excitement near the corner of Eighth Avenue and Forty-seventh street, yesterday morning, in consequence of the finding of the body of Walter Fleg, a lad seven years of age, covered two or three feet under the earth in a cellar at the above locality. The spot where the body was found was some ten feet below the pavement. Deceased, the son of John Fleg, a natter, of 75 Eighth avenue, had been mysteriously missing from his home for two weeks, and there were suspicions that he had been thrown overboard by some rowdy boys and drowned. William Guthrie, a lad of ten years, living at No. 643 West Forty-first street, and Joseph Snyder, eight years old, who lives at 75 West Forty-sixth street, were arrested at the time and made various contradictory statements in regard to the missing boy, but were afterwards discharged by Justice Coulter. Coroner Kessler retained and detained the boys to await the result of an investigation to be held on Thursday next.

It is stated that a lad boy belonging to one of the great gangs of young street rowdies had recently disappeared from the neighborhood and cannot now be found. No motive sufficient for the disappearance is known, and it is believed he fell into the cellar and was killed, after which the earth was piled upon and buried him. Coroner Kessler yesterday commanded a jury, who viewed the remains, after which they were interred in Cypress Hill Cemetery. Captain Killilea, of the Twenty-second precinct, is making efforts to solve the mystery.

WEST POINT POLITICIANS.

An Address from Bloody Chasm—Bridging West Pointers to Their Brotherhood—Great Reunion in 1874 Expected.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 26, 1873.

A meeting of a number of graduates of West Point Academy was held here on the 20th inst., the object of which was to discuss the best means to prevent upon all the graduates of that Academy the next annual Annual Meeting, in June, 1874.

General J. Easton presided, with General J. S. Marmaduke as Secretary. Speeches were made by several officers who fought on opposite sides during the late war, all of whom agreed that such a reunion would not only be harmonious and happy, but would prove a benefit to the nation.

A committee, consisting of General Tighman, of Maryland; General Martin, of Missouri; and Colonel Renick, of Missouri, was appointed to draft an address to the graduates of the Academy. Yesterday this address was submitted to an adjourned meeting and unanimously adopted. It states that since the close of the late war a society has been formed which is composed of the Alumni of West Point Academy, but that unfortunately up to the present time few except federal officers have joined it.

This, the address says, should not be so, and strongly urges all the graduates of the Academy to enroll themselves as members. The address further says:—

We joyfully thank God that national animosities are disappearing, and that after all the confusion of a gigantic civil war we are again substantially restored to the possession of our country. The work of the government is nearly and soon to be fully completed. We are equal under the constitution of our country. Justice is restored to the consummation like the graduates of the Military Academy. We are proud to say that our honor was maintained and kept untarnished in the late war, and that we are all sides of that contest without animosity and with the satisfaction that it was no disgrace to our country to have been useful lessons and examples influenced by such considerations.

We, your fellow graduates, representing all sections of the United States, earnestly invite you to join us at the next annual meeting of the West Point Military Academy in June, 1874. We will rejoice there the glow of our hearts, and we will be glad to see you, and we will be glad to see you without personal acrimony or dishonor, and rejoice again over our common country, strengthened and expanded by her glorious struggles.

The address is signed by twenty-two officers, the most prominent of whom are:—On the federal side, Generals Easton, Martin, Marmaduke, and Thomas and Colonel Turner; on the Confederate side, Generals Tighman, Major, Bell, Boggs and Marmaduke, Colonel Rice and Major Waggoner.
