Count de Chambord Again Accepts the Throne of the Nation.

Prussia Almost Paid Off—Great Increase in the Revenue—M. Henri Rochefort on Board a Convict Ship—M. Thiers a Chief Mourner for Odillon Barrot.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD. VIENNA, August 8, 1873.

The Vorstadt-Zeitung reports that the Count de Chambord has accepted the throne of France, a formal tender of which was recently made him by a deputation of French legitimists.

His Royal Highness' Declaration of Monarchical Principle and Governmental Rule.

Count de Chambord a short time since addressed the following letter, setting forth his principle of government for France and his opinion of the Republic, to a prominent friend of his dynasty:—

I do not hesitate to reply frankly to the questions which you have put to me. France would be saved, and we should be saved by her, by her more and greater than ever, if the real conditions of safety were rightly understood. The country is ready to agitate a secret instinct, to feel that the traditional monarchy could restore to it that repose which it so much desires, and it is that which the Republic seeks, at any cost, to prevent. For that the ultimate destiny of the nation are redoubled. Your patriotic spirit revolts against this, and you grieve to find that the Republic is not content with the compromises of errors which they detect and of solutions which they dread. I lament this as much as you, but like you, I protest against the establishment of a state of things intended to prolong our misfortunes. It is impossible to be mistaken upon that point. The proclamation of the Republic in France has always been the commencement of a social anarchy, opening a free field for all kinds of greed and envy—all kinds of Utopias; and you are not under any pretext to take any such salutary enterprise. It is continually and without any reason declared that we now live in times when everything happens that is unexpected, and the ultimate destiny of the nation is to find one day an expedient to insure safety for to-morrow. If the country is so weak as to permit itself to be drawn by the current of events, it is nothing can be less uncertain than the future. We are hastening towards a certain abyss. All attempts will be made by the current of events to find a solution between that party of violence which promises peace to men while declaring war against God, and that more prudent, better disciplined party, arriving at its end by the most honorable, but still striving for the same end. They differ in their language, but they pursue the same chimera; they do not want to see the soldiers, but they march under the same flag. They cannot fail to draw upon us the same misfortunes. To retain the illusion of an honest and moderate Republic after the sanguinary and bloody events and the savage deeds of the second "Terror," each so murderous for our brave army, is it not to reach the quicker to the abyss? It is not to treat the lessons of experience with too much contempt? It is at the moment when France is in a state of anarchy, and it is sought to impose upon it the government which is most menacing towards its religious liberties. It is when the necessity of a strong and honest government is felt that any alliance is to be rendered impossible, and we are to condemn ourselves to a fatal isolation. No, the will not be. The Republic disquiets interests as much as it does consciences. It can be but a provisional arrangement for a longer or shorter period. Monarchy alone can give true liberty, and it is the only one which is conservative in order to reassure all honest people. It is these last that I would reawaken to consciousness of their strength in the face of the Republic, which were accustomed to say, "Oh, the King King!" How just it would be to-day to say, "Oh, if honest men would." Let us be justly just against the unfaithfulness of some, the timid acquiescence of others. To the policy of factions and falsehood let us always and everywhere oppose our open and undisguised policy. WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, August 8, 1873. German-Americans as United States Representative in Germany. The State Department has been thrown into feverish excitement over the announcement that no appointments to Germany of a diplomatic or consular nature will be made of persons born in that country, and that this policy has been adopted as the express request of Bismark, who wishes to check the enormous emigration to that country. The Secretary of State to-day authorized the publication of the following:—

Foreign governments exercise no influence over the policy of the government, and, least of all, would an attempt to exercise such influence avail the State Department. A general rule has been provided and been acted upon by several administrations of not selecting consuls from the natives of the country to which they are sent.

As nearly as our consuls and vice consuls in Germany, in the German Empire, are naturalized citizens from that country, the annual is not accepted by the applicants for vacancies, as consistent with the practice of the Department here.

Judge Thomas Settle, of North Carolina, arrived here to-day. He says that the result of the election in his State yesterday will show a remarkable affiliation between the whites and blacks on the State constitutional amendments which were submitted for ratification yesterday. The principal opposition to the adoption of the amendments lay in the colored element of the eastern districts of the State. The issues were of a purely local nature, the question of race being wholly ignored.

A Hot Reply from General Spinner to a Cashier's Cool Request. General Spinner yesterday addressed the following:— "Your letter of the 4th inst. was received yesterday by Adams' Express. The enclosed, as therein stated, two United States legal tender notes, one of the denomination $500 and the other of $100, both these notes are entirely new, having never been folded, and are perfectly clean, being without spot or stain. The $500 note is a five-dollar note, with a view to the raising of the United States notes of smaller denominations to the value of these, more than one-tenth of each has been secured out with the intention of being returned to the Treasury Department that existed for more than ten years, these two notes could have been bought for the sum of ten cents of their face value; sixty dollars would, under the old rules, have been deducted for the mutilations, have been returned for the government, and a penalty cannot be enforced. Under this more lenient modification you claim to have returned to the Treasury Department notes of like denominations under the government contract at the expense of the United States. The charges for transportation, both ways would be one dollar and twenty cents. For the dog-days I consider this request decidedly cool. First, you, or your clerk, will not be allowed to take any more notes you ask the government not only to replace them with other new and unutilized notes, but to indemnify you for the mutilated and returned with like request for other new notes, but to pay the expense and run the risk of transportation both ways. This, to me, is a very hot iron, but you ask the government to pay for heating the poker. If you will turn the fifty-dollar note of the National Bank into a one-dollar note, you will find that the National Bank had treated two of your bank notes in the way these two United States notes have been treated by your action in your request for jurisdiction $50 for each of the mutilations. Now, what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. The mutilated notes, under the same conditions, should be made to respond in like manner. Under the circumstances it has been concluded that the notes be retained at any rate until the pieces that were cut out of them shall be returned to this office, and until the apparent fraudulent or malicious mutilation shall have been satisfactorily explained."

Our European Squadron. In view of the present disorganized condition of affairs in Spain the vessels comprising the European squadron, under command of Rear Admiral A. Ludlow Case, have been ordered to rendezvous in Spanish ports. The Wabash, flagship of the squadron, is now en route to Cartagena, and the Congress and Wachusett will follow. The Shenandoah is already at Cadix. The Alaska, now in commission at Brooklyn, will sail in about ten days to join the European squadron.

Interesting to Believers in Civil Service Reform. The following executive order has been issued:—

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 8, 1873. The Civil Service, at its session in Washington which terminated June 4, 1873, recommended certain further rules to be prescribed by the President for the government of the civil service in the United States. These rules are herewith published for approval, and their provisions will be enforced as rapidly as the proper arrangements can be made. U. S. GRANT.

Pleasant Times at the State Department. The government has received no official communication from Great Britain relative to the Manitoba difficulty, and, therefore, contrary to report, has taken no action whatever in the premises. Nor has the government received any communication from the Spanish representatives concerning the action of the United States officers in relation to the protection of the Virginians.

Highway Robbery in the Rocky Mountains. Special Agent Wikizer, of the Post Office Department, reports from Salt Lake, July 31, that highway robbery on the main routes in the Rocky Mountains is becoming quite frequent. On the 9th ult. robbers attacked the mail coach on the Montana route, near Pleasant Valley, and took $10,000 in treasure from Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express, but did not molest the mails. The robbers have been arrested. A few days later, on the same route, near Snake River, the stage coach was fired into and the driver mortally wounded. The poor fellow had the nerve and presence of mind to put whip to his horses, by which all was saved but his own life. He expired soon after he reached the first station. On the 24th ultimo the mail coach on the Kelton and Boise route, near Snake River, was attacked by robbers and the through mail pouch from Boise to Kelton taken and also Wells, Fargo & Co.'s treasure box. Agent Wikizer says bad men come to the mines with the expectation of making sudden fortunes, and, being disappointed, become reckless and desperate highwaymen.

Derby was two lengths to the post of honor at the half mile, in 1:14, Susie second and trotting steadily. Approaching the three-quarter pole Susie put on more steam at the bid of her driver, and she showed in front as they swung into the homestretch, the contest between them being very exciting. G. Brown eighth. Time, 2:24 1/2.

Second Heat—Susie and Derby had the best of the send off, but around the turn Gloster, Crown Prince and J. G. Brown, side by side, showed a little in front of the mare, and in this manner they rattled the quarter in 37 1/2. The horses were all bunched, and remained so going down the backstretch. The half mile was made in 1:12 1/2. After leaving this point the first three that showed plainly were Gloster, J. G. Brown and Crown Prince. Leaving the three-quarter pole and coming up the homestretch Susie made a burst of speed and Crown Prince fell back fourth place. THE 2:30 RACE. First Heat—Out of ten entries Brother Jonathan, James, and Red Wing were withdrawn. St. James and Castle Boy were neck and neck after leaving the score. At the three-quarter pole they were in the same position. Coming up the stretch St. James was a head of Cosette and Boy, who was a length and a half in front of Cosette, and they crossed the score in that position.
