

THE RED ENEMY.

Details of the Fight at Sorass Lake.

GENERAL JACK IN COMMAND.

The Savages Again Surprise the Troops and Are Surprised in Turn.

A VICTORY AT LAST.

Rout of the Modocs, with the Loss of Horses and Ammunition.

OUT IN THE OPEN GROUND.

The Troops Between the Lava Beds and the Indians.

FOUR SOLDIERS AND ONE MODOC KILLED.

General Davis Confident of His Ability to Exterminate the Enemy.

THE SOUTHWEST INDIANS.

Condition of Affairs in New Mexico and Arizona.

LAVA BED CAMP, Cal., May 11, 1873.

Yesterday the scouting party under Captain Hasbrouck and Donald McKay met the Modocs at the head of Sorass Lake. It seems they had been encamped the night previous, expecting to meet the Indians in that vicinity, though the only signs seen were fresh tracks of one mule and a pony. Twelve men of Jackson's cavalry were guarding the horses, when,

IN THE GRAY OF THE MORNING, the Modocs attacked the camp. They had left their horses back some distance and crept upon the sleepers, the first fire killing one and wounding eight men. The soldiers sprang to their arms, and, with the Warm Springs, in a few minutes were driving the Modocs.

The country was rather open, but still rough, for two miles, which the Modocs must pass to reach the lava bed.

THE WARM SPRINGS ran them so fast that the Modocs lost twenty-one horses and some loads of ammunition. One Warm Spring was killed. The Indians were driven all day and last night. Donald McKay sent back for water, saying he could hold them. There were THIRTY-FOUR MODOC IN THE FIGHT—all the band. They were working around for the timbered butte, near the Sand Bluff, where they hope to escape by way of Pit Range, if forced to leave the lava beds. This is a decisive victory, and will do more to encourage the soldiers and discourage the Modocs than all the previous fighting. The Warm Springs fought nobly and to the purpose.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT, at half-past seven o'clock this evening, states that the troops lost two killed—Corporal Tottem, of Troop G, First cavalry, and one Warm Spring Indian. One Modoc is known to be killed, and perhaps others.

To-morrow 170 men from this side are ordered to move towards the scene of the conflict. General Davis hopes that we now have them whipped, and will improve the occasion. General Gillem will not be interfered with, for his policy has been true so far. I think we can see the beginning of the end.

CAMP ON LAVA BEDS, May 12, 1873.

I had little time in which to give particulars of the last fighting before the courier left. The forces acting against the savages are some twenty-five miles from here, and are working this way, probably driving the Modocs towards the stronghold they occupied at the time of the Thomas massacre. The troops are moving from this camp this morning, hoping to cut them off before they reach it. All is action now.

THE MODOC WILL BE ALLOWED NO REST. General Davis says that we have begun an action which will end in exterminating the tribe. It was a great mistake of the Modocs, who undoubtedly thought they could stampede this force as they had stampeded others; but they met the Warm Springs.

THE INDIANS SURPRISED. These warriors started at the first fire as fast as they could get their guns, trotting on the flank of the Modocs, which surprised them. The cry of the Warm Springs went through the Modoc ranks and they were stampeded in place of the soldiers. The Warm Springs drove them steadily all day, and laid on their flank last night, and will renew the fight to-day.

Batteries A and K left for the lava beds last night.

CONDITION OF LIEUTENANT HARRIS. Lieutenant Harris, mother and brother arrived last evening. The Lieutenant is in a very critical situation.

THE WOUNDED in the last engagement arrived at Boyle's camp last evening. We shall have particulars of the fight to-night.

The topographical party left for San Francisco to-day.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

LAVA BEDS, May 11—2 A. M. Via San Francisco, May 12, 1873. Despatches from Lieutenant Bayles' camp state that at sunrise yesterday the Modocs came into the camp and fired on the picket guard. The command of Captain Hasbrouck, after scouting all day, had returned to Sorass Lake for water, and were making efforts to secure some by digging, but none could be found. Donald McKay was sent back to Lieutenant Bayles' camp as an escort of Battery B of the Fourth artillery. G and B troops, of the First cavalry, left for the scene of the fight, the distance being seventeen miles, and which occupied all night until dawn of the next day. Captain Jack's band rode within one hundred yards of the camp, when all dismounted and CHARGED ON THE CAMP, firing into the herd and guard. The first volley stampeded the herd, which left for the camp, and while the men were getting under arms the Modocs gave volley after volley, killing four soldiers and one Warm Spring Indian. A rally was made and the charge was sounded. This time Donald McKay and some of his men united and drove the Modocs into the timber, capturing twenty-one ponies and three pack mules.

One Modoc was left on the field and nineteen mules packed; also six dead bodies. Before the retreat the trail was covered with gore. The Indians beat

A HASTY RETREAT towards the McLeod range of mountains.

Captain Hasbrouck handled his men dexterously. He is now furnished with five days' supplies, but water is very scarce, which deters a long stay in the field. General Davis is determined to keep the savages moving until the last Modoc is killed. The soldiers gain greater courage, having

THE ENEMY IN THE OPEN GROUND. The wounded are being brought into camp in wagons, and from there they will be taken to headquarters. Two soldiers are reported mortally wounded. Captain Hasbrouck thinks the Modocs have no ammunition except what they have remaining in their pouches, as they lost their entire reserve of ammunition in this fight. The cavalry are in camp all safe. Captain Jack has but seven animals with him.

CAPTAIN JACK WEARING GENERAL CANBY'S UNIFORM. He wore the attire of General Canby, and took his position on the field in as lordly a manner as if he had been a brigadier general.

The artillery will move at once to the other side of the lake. Enough men will remain in the old stronghold to keep it safe, while the rest will give chase and try to exterminate the fugitives. There were thirty-three Modocs engaged. No squaws were seen during the fight nor by the scouts on the following night.

WHERE DID THE MODOC GET FIXED AMMUNITION? There is a strong suspicion that Captain Jack is receiving aid from some unknown party. It appears strange how he got six boxes of central primed cartridges. He did not capture them from our forces, and it is certain that he could not have picked up that amount after the battle of January 17. When the courier left the troops were

BETWEEN THE LAVA BEDS AND THE INDIANS, the latter being entirely out in the lava beds stronghold.

The condition of Lieutenant Harris is much the same as last reported, but there is a greater hope for his recovery.

The Troops in Pursuit.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13, 1873. A despatch from Yreka states that the Modocs are twenty-five miles from the place of the last fight, and are hotly pursued by the troops and the Warm Spring Indians.

Reinforcements to General Davis.

LARAMIE CITY, Wyoming, May 13, 1873. Two companies of the Fourth infantry arrived here to-day en route from Arkansas to the seat of the Modoc war.

General Canby's Remains at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 13, 1873. The steamer John L. Stevens, from Portland, arrived here last evening with the body of General Canby. The remains were received by a detachment of the National Guard of California, and were conveyed to the Army Headquarters, where they will lie in state for two days. Mrs. Canby arrived on the same steamer.

The funeral ceremonies take place to-morrow. Flags are at half-mast on all the public buildings.

ARIZONA AND OREGON.

Capture of Quienahattanob—Movements of Troops—An Indian Attack at Walla Walla Gallantly Repulsed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12, 1873. Advice from Arizona state that the United States troops captured Quienahattanob, the Apache chief, who had murdered five squaws, and were about to hang him, but General Crook ordered that he be sent to Fort Alcatraz, in the harbor of San Francisco. Three companies of troops have been ordered from Arizona to the Modoc country.

Work is to be commenced immediately on the government telegraph line between Arizona City and San Diego, Cal. AN INDIAN ATTACK AND A GALLANT REFUSE. A despatch from Portland, Oregon, yesterday, says five Indians attacked the house of James Harison, eight miles from Walla Walla. He refused to give the Indians tobacco and they knocked the door down. Harrison defended himself and daughter with a hatchet, knocked two of the Indians down and was struggling with a third when the daughter came to the rescue and knocked the Indian down with an axe. The neighbors heard the outcry and came to the relief of Harrison and his daughter, and captured three of the Indians, who are in jail; the two other Indians escaped.

ON TO RED MAN'S LAND.

ST. LOUIS, May 13, 1873. The New York excursion party, which left yesterday morning for a trip to the Indian Territory over the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, arrived at Springfield, Mo., last evening, where they were met by many prominent citizens and pleasantly entertained. They were welcomed by ex-Governor John S. Phelps in a neat speech, which was responded to by ex-Mayor Gunther and other gentlemen, of New York.

CONNECTICUT.

Legislative Honors to the Memory of the Late Chief Justice—Only One State Capital Wanted.

HARTFORD, Ct., May 13, 1863. In the Senate to-day a resolution of respect to the memory of Chief Justice Chase was introduced, and Senators Elmer and Tenny spoke in eulogy of the deceased. The resolution was passed, and the Senate immediately adjourned. The resolution was adopted in the House.

In the Senate a resolution amending the constitution, so as to provide for one State capital, was made the special order for Wednesday, May 21.

THE POPE.

His Holiness Very Feeble and Still Sinking in Health.

A Protracted Fainting Fit, Followed by Excessive Debility.

His Eighty-first Birthday Observed Under Solemn Circumstances.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

ROME, May 13, 1873.

His Holiness Pope Pius the Ninth was very feeble in health during the day yesterday.

He had a fainting fit, which lasted an hour.

STILL SINKING.

To-day the condition of the aged Pontiff is rather worse, showing excessive debility.

A SAD YET GLORIOUS ANNIVERSARY.

This day, 13th of May, is the eighty-first birthday of His Holiness, but he was unable to give audience to deputations which called at the Vatican to tender congratulations.

Brief Sketch of the Pope's Life.

John Mastai Ferretti—Pope Pius IX.—was born on the 13th of May, in the year 1792, at Sinigaglia, near Ancona. He received minor orders in the church on the 5th of January, 1817; subdeacon's order, 20th of December, 1818; deacon's, 6th of March, 1819; and was ordained priest on Holy Saturday, the same year, at the hands of Monsignor Caprara. He celebrated his first mass on the 10th of April, 1819. In early life he served in the Guard of Nobles, during the Pontificate of Pius VII. When a young priest he was engaged on a special mission to Chili. He was subsequently Archbishop of Spoleto and of Imola. He was proclaimed Cardinal on the 14th of December, 1840, and was created Pope on the 16th, and crowned on the 21st of June, 1846. His crosses and trials have been many and severe.

ENGLAND.

Heavy Demand for Accommodation at the Bank—Discount in Open Market and Rates for Money on 'Change.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, May 13, 1873.

The demand for accommodations at the Bank of England to-day was heavy at the bank rate of discount.

The rate of discount for three months' bills on the open market is 1-16 per cent below the Bank of England rate.

The rate of money at the Stock Exchange on government securities is lower than the Bank of England by 1/4 per cent.

FRANCE.

Military Prohibition of a Press Publication.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PARIS, May 13, 1873.

General Admiral, the Military Governor of Paris, has issued an order prohibiting the sale of the newspaper Journal d'Etat.

SPAIN.

Bourbonism Still in Reaction Against the Republic—An Eminent Statesman Disappears from the Capital.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

MADRID, May 13, 1873.

A Carlist conspiracy for the overthrow of the Republic has been discovered in this city.

Three of the conspirators have been arrested.

AWAY FROM THE CENTRE. Señor Sagasta has disappeared from Madrid.

SWITZERLAND.

Domestic Joy in a Free Church Pastoral Family.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

GENEVA, May 13, 1873.

Mme. Loysen, the wife of Père Hyacinthe, has given birth to a boy.

LEXINGTON RACES.

Second Day of the Spring Meeting of the Kentucky Association—A Bad Accident on the Track—Two Splendid Races.

LEXINGTON, May 13, 1873. The meeting to-day was successful in all but one respect. The races, two in number, were well contested, a good attendance on the track, and the betting lively. In the second heat of the first race a very bad accident occurred. Major B. G. Thomas' entry, War Jig, fell down on the backstretch, throwing his rider, Johnny Williams, who lay stunned upon the track. When taken up it was found that his collar bone and two ribs were broken. This boy was thrown by Victorine the day before, his horse rolling over him. The following is a summary of the first race:

- MILE HEATS FOR ALL AGES—PURSE $250. McGrath's b. l. J.ury, 4 years old, by Lexington, 1 1/2; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Reynolds' c. l. Clarine, 4 years old, by imp. Australian, 3 2; 1:46 1/2—1:47 1/2—1:47 1/2. Gibson's c. c. Harland, 4 years old, by imp. Australian, 4 3; 1:46 1/2—1:47 1/2—1:47 1/2. Thomas' b. c. War, Jig 4 years old, by War Dance, 2 4; 1:46 1/2—1:47 1/2—1:47 1/2. Harper's Platina, 4 years old, by Platina, 3 3; 1:46 1/2—1:47 1/2—1:47 1/2. Brennan's Flight, 3 years old, by War Dance, dis Time: 1:45; 1:46 1/2. Second Race—One and a quarter miles, for all ages, for a purse of $150. Richards' c. c. Major Macon, 3 years old, by War Dance, 1 1/2; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Grimes' c. c. l. Edgar, 3 years old, by Lightning, 2 1; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Reynolds' c. c. l. Elsie, 4 years old, by Bonny Scotland, 3 2; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Two others started. Time, 2:12 1/2.

NASHVILLE SPRING RACES.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 13, 1873. This was the first day of the Nashville Spring races. The sport was considered unusually fine, although the track was slow. The weather was propitious, the attendance good and the pooling lively. The first race was for the Belmont Stakes, for three-year-olds, mile heats. The following is the summary: Nashville, 3 1; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Pamie Malone, 2 2; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Mosie, 4 4; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Alice Mitchell, 4 5; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. The second race was for the Association Purse of $200; mile heats. The following is the summary: Quartermaster, 2 1; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Frank Hampton, 1 2; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Young Harry, 3 3; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Doswell, 4 4; 1:45 1/2—1:46 1/2—1:46 1/2. Fort Leonard, 4 Dis. Time, 1:47; 1:47 1/2—1:48 1/2. The first heat was won by a length, the second by a length and a half. In the third both horses ran locked all around. The fourth was won by half a length. Both the favorites were beaten.

HEAVY FAILURE OF A GRAIN MERCHANT.

CHICAGO, May 13, 1873. John Watson, a grain operator, suspended to-day. His liabilities amount to $150,000.

MONEY IN EUROPE.

The German Bourses Generally and Severely Depressed.

Serious Consequences of the Money Panic in Vienna—Prussia Preparing to Apply for Legislative Relief—The Operation of the Austrian Bank Act Suspended—"Wildcat" Speculation and Other Causes Which Tended to Produce the Crisis.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

BERLIN, May 13, 1873.

The Bourses of the principal cities of Germany are extremely depressed in consequence of the money panic in Vienna.

The German North government, with a view to the relief of the different centres of 'Change, will introduce a measure into the Diet applying Prussia's share of the war contribution to the purchase of bills and public securities to advances for the accommodation of merchants, and to the redemption of the debt for railway works.

THE GERMAN RAILWAYS AND SPECULATIVE POLICY OF THE STATE.

The German government proposal to borrow 120,000,000 thalers for a system of railways in Prussia is the occasion of an animated discussion in the Chamber of Representatives during the latest days of the month of March. The liberal party generally was disposed to support the concentration of the railways in the hands of the State. The ultramontanists, on the other hand, who, it is alleged, oppose everything that adds to the influence of the central government, were hostile to this view. The impression against the government produced by the debate was very strong, and the course—so unusual in Prussia—of refusing to grant the vote in question by a solemn, decisive vote, was seriously canvassed by the majority.

The Austrian Bank Act Suspended.

VIENNA, May 13, 1873. The operation of the Bank act has been suspended, its national privilege chartering it to the year 1876 being obliterated.

The Austrian Bank Act and its Preliminary Difficulties—Hungarian Account of "Wildcat" Speculation.

A special correspondence in Hungary, dating in Perth at a very recent moment, presented some views of admiration preliminary to the Austrian Bank act crisis and the Vienna Bourse financial collapse, setting forth some few of the causes which were more immediately pressing towards such results.

The writer said:—The presence here of the Austrian Minister President and the Minister of Finance has been taken advantage of to hold conferences on the bank question. This question had been left pending in 1867, when the arrangement between Austria and Hungary was made. There were then so many other far more urgent questions, and this question itself was so intricate, that it was thought more advisable to postpone its solution, as the privilege of the National Bank, which lasts till the end of 1875, seemed to admit of an adjournment without creating much inconvenience. Hungary did not, indeed, recognize this privilege as binding, and as the arrangement with Austria did not mention the bank as one of the institutions common to both sides of the Empire, she considered herself entitled, if her interests required it, to establish a national bank of her own, and the status quo was accepted in good faith on both sides. For a couple of years things went on smoothly enough on both sides. The Austrian National Bank, anxious to maintain its privilege, and to produce such an amount of business as would justify its existence, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which had been £1,500,000, was successively more than doubled, while the low discount made the benefits of this increased business find easily accessible to every one. All this lasted till about the middle of 1869, when gradually a change arose. The impulse given to industrial and financial enterprise by the settlement of political affairs, however healthy and legitimate in the beginning, had gradually degenerated into speculation of the kind which, in every one was getting up companies, gave a fresh impulse to industrial and commercial activity in Hungary. The impulse was vigorously promoted by a good harvest for two years, and an export of grain and other raw produce such as had never existed before. Financial and industrial establishments were springing up in every direction, all of which naturally expected to find support in the National Bank. Nor were they deceived. The Vienna establishment endeavored in every way to meet the demands thus made upon its resources. The demand for its branches which had which